Why Communication Matters

Since Township staff and elected members of council have frequent contact with the public and high exposure to residents, each individual has an obligation to communicate with tax payers and other levels of government with a high degree of professionalism. Good governance requires an ongoing, symmetrical exchange of ideas. Information must flow not only from the municipality to stakeholders, but from stakeholders to the municipality.

Introduction

The purpose of this Cascade Township Communication Plan is to put in place key recommendations to improve communications with citizens. The Plan reviews the Township's current communication methods, and observes practices in comparable municipalities.

Guiding Principles

The guiding principles for communication with the Township of Cascade come from past practices which govern the behavior of the Township of Cascade, its officials and staff.

- 1. Integrity – The Cascade Township is committed to providing reliable, accurate and clear communication and will strive to achieve communication excellence.
- 2. Trust and Respect – The Cascade Township will be dedicated to open communication and will seek to listen and understand citizens, township officials and staff. The Cascade Township will be respectful of the access to information and privacy rights of citizens and employees.
- 3. Accountability – The Communication Plan will set out goals to ensure that the Cascade Township is accountable through the establishment of open communication.
- 4. Professionalism – Based on the standards set-out in the Township of Cascade Branding Guidelines, the Township will ensure that all communication has a consistent and professional look and feel.
- 5. Inclusivity – An integral part of communication is ensuring that messages are “getting out” to as many people as possible. The Township will be inclusive by establishing messages that are clear, understandable and in plain language. Material will be created to be accessible and designed to engage employees, stakeholders and residents.

The Township of Cascade Township currently undertakes many communication initiatives both internally and externally. The various communication tools are used to relay information to various stakeholders including tax payers, citizens, community groups, elected officials and staff.
